TELEGRAPHIC.

The Convention Convened at Ten O'clock and on the Third Ballot.

Winfield Scott Hancock, of Pennsylvania, is Nominated for President.

And William H. English, of Indiana as the Vice-President.

The Nomination is Generally Conceded to be a Good One.

At Forty Minutes Past two the Convention Adjourned Sine Die.

CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, June 24.—If there was any dark horse fairly in the race this forenoon it was English, of Connecticut.

An earnest, though quietly conducted canvass was made last night to get up a combination in his favor with which to check the Hancock boom, but there is no evidence that it was successful, although it may be, that his managers have taken a leap from Hancock's book into the matter of silent discretion.

On every hand we hear that the southern delegates are rallying to Hancock and many figure a majority of the convention for him; on the first ballot to-day while the expectation was probably well founded. The shifts are so constantly under the pressure from every side upon the unusually plastic material of which this convention is composed that nothing can be relied upon. From hour to hour the failure of Pennsylvania to support him and as a favorite son is at present his worst drawback. If the Tilden men are going to develop their new boom in his behalf they must seize their opportunity early to-day. The New York delegation having withdrawn from the support of Payne have informally agreed not to present any candidate; but if Tilden is presented elsewhere in such a way as to give them half a chance they will cast their solid seventy for him. There are a few shrewd men here now who question the fact that Tilden's letter of withdrawal was, in fact, designed to make the sympathy of the convention and strengthen him for the renewal of his candidacy at the supreme moment; but the weather here is intensely hot and the Ohio water very dirty, and every body wants to go home to-day, despite the excellence of Ohio whiskey, so it looks as if some nomination is sure before night that it will be Hancock, English or Tilden for the first place, is the general opinion, with the chances favoring Morrison for the second place in either case.

President Stevenson arrived at 10:25 but the delegates seats are only half filled, and the organ and military bands occupy the audience with many admirably rendered musical selections.

The chair called the convention to order at 10:30.

Prayer was offered again by Rev. Dr. Taylor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. He prayed for that unanimity and harmony in the convention so needful to accomplish the patriotic end which it had in view; that individual members might lay aside their personal prejudices for the highest welfare of a noble nation; that the choice of the convention might result in the selection of a man whose character was blameless in life, unsullied in character, and of exalted patriotism, and that the person elected might be brought to occupy his place.

Beckham, of New York, rose to make a statement in behalf of the New York delegation, that the delegation heard with great emotion—cries of platform and he took the desk—the delegation heard with great emotion that votes given yesterday for the honored statesman of New York, S. J. Tilden. [Great applause.]

The chair rebuked the interference with the proceedings by outsiders and he would ask the convention to preserve order at all hazards. Beckham resumed: Telegraph had been received from Tilden in which he renounced himself as a candidate for the nomination, knowing him to be honest in his purpose and action, accept his letter as a renunciation of all claims for the candidacy. He presented the letter for such action as the convention desired; but the delegation have this morning agreed on another candidate and he named Speaker Randall. [Applause.]

The Chair asked if the convention would have Tilden's letter read; [Cries yes and no] but on a vote it was decided no.

Thomas, of Kentucky, offered a resolution denouncing as unconstitutional and republican any state law on account of his religious or non-religious views, which was referred.

Roll was called for ballot for President. Alabama, voted for Hancock, 11; Bayard, 5; Field, 4; Arkansas, Field, 5; California, Hancock, 5; Field, 5; Hendricks, 1; absent 1. Colorado, Field, 6; Connecticut, Bayard, 1; English, 11. Delaware, Bayard, 6; Florida, Bayard, 8; Georgia, Field, 10; Hancock, 7; Bayard, 5. Illinois, Hancock, 42. [Immense applause and cheers.] Indiana, Hendricks, 30. Iowa, Bayard, 1; Randall, 12; [Cheers and hisses.] Hancock, 9. Kansas, Hancock, 10. Kentucky, Hancock, 8; Bayard, 7; Field, 4; Tilden, 3; Thurman, 2. Louisiana, Hancock, 16. Maine, Hancock, 14. [Cheers.] Maryland, Bayard, 16. Massachusetts, Hancock, 11; [Cheers.] Bayard, 1; Randall, 31 1-2. Tilden, 2; Field, 11 1-2. Michigan, Hancock, 14; Bayard, 4; English, 2; Randall, 1; Tilden, 9. Minnesota, Hancock, 10. Mississippi, Bayard, 9; Field, 2; Hancock, 6. Missouri, Bayard, 4; Hancock, 28; [Great cheering.] Nebraska, Randall, 6. [Cheers and hisses.] Nevada, Field, 4; Thurman, 1; Randall, 1. New Hampshire, Hancock, 1; Randall, 5. New Jersey passed. New York, Randall, 70. [Cheers and hisses.] North Carolina, Hancock, 20; Ohio asked leave to go out for consultation. Oregon, Field, 60; Pennsylvania, passed. Rhode Island, Hancock, 6; Randall, 1; English, 1. South Carolina, Bayard, 14. Tennessee, Field 2; Bayard, 8; Hancock, 18. [Cheers.] Texas, Bayard 5, Hancock, 10. [Cheers.] Vermont, Hancock, 10; Virginia passed not being ready. West Virginia, Bayard 1; Thurman, 2; Hancock 7; Wisconsin, Bayard 2; Hancock, 10; Thurman 1; Field 2; English, 5. New Jersey was again called and voted Bayard 4; Parker, 2; Jewett, 1; Hancock, 7; [Cheers.] Randall, 4. Ohio stated that in obedience to instructions they cast 42 for Thurman another Ohio delegate denied his right to announce the vote and said that the delegation was now considering how to cast their vote. Pennsylvania, Bayard 1; Randall, 26. [Cheers and hisses.] Hancock, 31. [Great cheers.] Vermont, Hancock, 7; Bayard, 7; Field, 8. Ohio was again called and gave 44 for Thurman. Pennsylvania corrected hers, Randall, 25; Hancock, 32. Before the official vote was announced, Wisconsin asked permission to change her vote. Some body raised the question of order; that vote could not be changed. The convention agreed to it, and Wisconsin cast her vote, Hancock, 20; [Great cheers.] There was now a scene of great confusion; New Jersey changed to Hancock, 18; following this change was immense cheering, long continued, and great confusion which the chair vainly tried, for several minutes to suppress. The chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation rose and said that Pennsylvania was proud of her sons, both of them, one a great soldier and the other an able statesman, and that they would gladly vote for either, and then they changed their whole vote to Hancock. Immense cheering and excitement, a great portion of the audience and convention rising and cheering, waving banners, fans, and tossing hats. Hancock's banner was brought to the front of the platform amid great enthusiasm. The band playing "Hail to the Chief." The small banners of the states voting for Hancock were brought forward to salute Hancock's large banner. The Virginia delegation flocked to the front of the platform, and rushed in with changes.

Nebraska gave 6 votes for Hancock and Rhode Island went solid and so with Alabama.

Arkansas, California, and Colorado all announced changes to Hancock from the Tilden States, which was greeted with hisses in the galleries, each State followed suit and cast a solid vote for Hancock, except Indiana which voted solid for Hendricks.

Maryland, Hancock, 14; Bayard, 2; New York, 70 for Hancock, which was received with [Cheers and hisses.] All the remainder were solid for Hancock. The audience and convention rose, with cheers, and the band played "Hail Columbia." Mack, of Indiana, moved to make Hancock's nomination unanimous. He expressed the deep feeling of his state for Hendricks; but they were loyal to the democratic party and would do their duty manfully. Randall was then presented on the platform and said that he was here to second the nomination of Hancock. [Cheers.] and congratulated the convention on harmony which had marked the proceedings. The nomination was strong and would bring victory, it would bring Pennsylvania back to the democratic ranks; it was one that would be satisfactory to the party and to the American people. [Cheers.] He pledged his earnest and constant efforts until victory should crown the work in nomination. If the people should ratify their choice, Hancock would be inaugurated. Wallace, of Penn., followed the democrats four years ago and named the man who was elected president, and to-day they have named the next; he urged a vigorous campaign; no campaign of defense; but of one constant aggression; he pledged himself in November next to be found in the democratic column.

Wade Hampton then advanced and said in brief: of a solid south who once arrayed against the gallant soldiers, he pledged a solid vote; there was no name held in higher respect than the man who had been made the standard bearer of the Democratic party. Hancock was one of the first when the war was over, to insist upon the influence for the restoration of southern people to rights; he pledged South Carolina to give a large majority as any democratic state.

Headley, for Ohio, seconded the motion to make Hancock's nomination unanimous. He said that victory in Ohio meant a unanimous vote in November, and that the Ohio democrats expected to gain that October victory, and that the convention had commanded Ohio to take Garfield's guns and they would try. [Applause.] The action of to-day was worthy of that other day on which the declaration of independence was signed by Hancock. [Applause.] The Chair put in the question pending and announced that Winfield S. Hancock was the unanimous choice of the convention for the democratic President of the United States.

A delegate moved that they now proceed to the nomination of vice-president, which was agreed to. The roll of States was then ordered. Pettis, of Alabama, then put in nomination Wm. H. English, of Indiana. Some one moved for it to be made, unanimous. California, Colorado, and Connecticut seconded it. Delaware, ditto; Illinois also seconded English. Indiana being called, Vorhees took the platform and said that Indiana had not been an applicant for second place on the ticket but was deeply touched by the mark of confidence placed in her citizen. A man who was never defeated for any position where his nomination had been before the people.

It was moved to make the nomination of English unanimous and by acclamation. Ohio withdrew their candidate and seconded the nomination of English and then a motion latter by acclamation as he being the only candidate before the convention which was unanimously carried, [Cheers.] On the motion of Weed, of Ohio, thanks were returned to Stevenson for the able and impartial duties of chair. On motion of Breckenridge, of Kentucky, it was ordered that a committee of one be appointed from each state to notify its nominees of their selection. At 2:40 this evening, after thanking the chair, the convention adjourned sine die.

GRAND JOLLIFICATION.

spe the Gazette.

Trinidad, Col., June 24.—The news of the nomination of Hancock and English reached this city at noon to-day, and was received with general satisfaction and joy by our democratic friends. Later in the day a rumor prevailed on the streets that Tilden was the lucky man, which raised doubt as to who was really nominated. Latter advises, however, confirmed the first and to-night the wildest enthusiasm prevails; firing guns and sounding steam whistles and cheers is an evidence that the nomination made to-day at Cincinnati is highly satisfactory to all members of the party in this city.

Grant Reception.

The meeting of the citizens to hear the report of the different committees met at the St. Nicholas Hotel at 10 o'clock last evening. The meeting was called to order by the chairman. The committee on arrangements submitted a report that Gen. Grant and party should be met at the depot and escorted thence to Baca Hall where a formal reception would be tendered them; which was adopted. A motion was then made that a committee should be appointed by the chairman which was carried. The chairman appointed the following named gentlemen as a reception committee.

A motion was made then that a committee on transportation should be appointed by the chairman to attend to procuring conveyances for the party and committees, Messrs. Mendenhall, Oakley and Wolf were appointed such committee. Mr. Pritchard, Wilcox, and Cullen were appointed a committee to procure badges, &c. for the committee on reception.

A committee was then appointed to attend to the decoration of the hall, which was composed of the following gentlemen, Messrs. Reynolds, Sulzbacher and Gross.

The committee on arrangements were instructed to procure the services of the band and Military Company. The following will be the programme: Gen. Grant and party to be met at the depot by the committee Band and Militia, and citizens, and escorted to Baca Hall, where he will be given a formal reception, and speeches of welcome made, and from thence to the Springs. Col. Pritchard was appointed upon motion to make the welcoming speech. After arranging a few other details the meeting adjourned.

—Mr. A. M. Jones just in from the White Oaks gives a very flattering report of progress in the district. There are more people in the mines now than ever before and more work being done. He has perfect confidence in the future of the district and gives evidence of his confidence by taking a stock of goods in there five times as large as the stock he has in this city.

—In the office of the Secretary of the Territory an act of incorporation has been filed, forming a company under the name of "The Las Vegas Mining Company." The capital stock is fixed at $2,500,000. The directors are as follows: Miguel Antonio Otero, A. M. Blackwell, O. L. Houghton, Jacob Gross, M. W. Breocene, J. P. Sellar and A. Meunch.
